General Civil Litigation; Insurance Defense, Coverage & Subrogation; Mediation & Arbitration

Biography:

Marsha has represented clients in numerous trials in the state and federal courts throughout Maryland. She has been active in all phases of the litigation process and has had the opportunity to resolve hundreds of cases through motions, arbitration and mediation. Marsha began her trial work as an associate attorney with the law firm of Simmons and Fields, P.A., where she handled insurance defense and subrogation litigation. After seven years with Simmons and Fields, Marsha left to work for the Baltimore Staff Counsel's office of GEICO, a client of Simmons and Fields, P.A. She then spent fifteen years with O'Connor, Grant, and Samuels (Maryland House Counsel's office for State Auto Insurance Companies). In 2017, Marsha returned to Simmons, Fields & Fanshaw. In addition to her trial practice, Marsha serves as a Settlement Conference Attorney for the District Court of Maryland.

While in law school, Marsha served as an intern for the Honorable Joseph I. Pines, Circuit Court for Baltimore City. She also worked as a law clerk for a private firm and was a legal reporter for The Daily Record, a daily newspaper featuring legal, business, and real estate news. After graduating from law school, Marsha worked as the Program and Publications Director of a not-for-profit organization, Citizens Planning and Housing Association (CPHA) in Baltimore, and served as a judicial clerk for the Honorable Elizabeth Holst Tockman and the Honorable Susan M. Marzetta, Circuit Court for Baltimore City.
